20. Date from which sentence runs.—(1) The punishment of imprisonment or detention which is not postponed in accordance with the provisions of section 151 or suspended shall begin to run on the day on which the warrant is formally read but if the offender has been kept in custody since the date on which warrant was signed by the officer who tried him, the sentence shall begin to run on that date.

(2) Other punishments shall take effect on the date on which the warrant is formally read.

(3) Notwithstanding that the state of health of the offender is such as renders him unable to undergo the whole or any part of the summary punishment to which he may have rendered himself liable and it appears probable that he will be invalided from the service or remain for a considerable time unfit for punishment, the punishment merited for his offence shall be awarded and should it require a warrant, it is to be completed and duly signed and read if necessary in the absence of the accused in order that he may not escape the consequences of the punishment such as loss of pay or stoppage of leave.

SECTION II

INVESTIGATION

22. Investigation of departmental offences.—(1) If a sailor commits a departmental or a divisional offence, the offence shall be investigated by his Departmental or Divisional Officer as the case may be, and he may be summarily tried and punished by his Departmental Officer or his Divisional Officer provided that the offence can be adequately punished within the powers of punishment delegated to such officer.

(2) If the Departmental or the Divisional Officer decides not to deal with the case himself, he shall refer the case to the Executive Officer.

(3) Where a sailor commits any other offence such offence may be investigated and the sailor may be tried and punished by the Officer of the Watch or the Officer of the Day provided that the offence can be adequately punished within the powers of punishment delegated to the Officer of the Watch or the Officer of the Day.

(4) If the Officer of the Watch or the Officer of the Day decides not to deal with the case himself, he shall refer it to the Executive Officer.

(5) The Executive Officer may investigate and try and punish summarily any offence referred to him provided it can be adequately punished within the powers of punishment delegated to him.

(6) If the Executive Officer decides not to deal with the case himself, he shall refer it to the Commanding Officer.

23. Offences by sailors on board tenders.—Offences committed by sailors belonging to a tender shall be similarly investigated and tried and if ultimately the offence is one which cannot be adequately dealt with by the Commanding Officer of the tender he shall refer it to the Commanding Officer of the parent ship.

24. Modification in case of training establishments.—(1) In training establishments where an Officer-in-Charge of a school has been delegated powers of awarding punishment, the Officer of the Day if he decides not to deal with the case himself, shall refer the case of any sailor belonging to a school to the Officer-in-Charge of that school, who may deal with the case provided it can be adequately punished within his powers of punishment.

(2) If the Officer-in-Charge of the school decides not to deal with the case himself, he shall refer it to the Commanding Officer.

25. Investigation of other offences.—(1) The preliminary investigation of offences by the Officer of the Watch or Officer of the Day shall take place as soon as possible after the commission of the offence while witnesses' memory is still fresh.

(2) The formal investigation of offences shall, when the service and circumstances admit, be deferred until the day following that of the commission of the offence.

(3) Hasty charges shall not be made and as far as practicable, there shall not be any delay in the investigation of the charge and the decision of the case and, when the accused is found guilty, in the award of the punishment.

(4) The fact that an offender's Service Documents are not available shall not normally delay the investigation of an offence, though there may be some delay in the infliction of punishment if the said documents are expected within a reasonable time.

(5) All charges shall be investigated fully on the quarterdeck or other suitable place, in the presence of the complainant and the accused and the complainant, accused and the witnesses shall be heard fully and with impartiality.

(6) The accused, the Divisional Officer or other defending officer, the complainant and the Master-at-Arms (or the person performing his duties) shall be present throughout the investigation.

(7) The witnesses shall be kept apart and out of earshot so that they cannot hear what other witnesses are saying when giving evidence and they shall withdraw after they have given evidence.

(8) The investigating officer shall, in every case consider whether the case is sufficiently serious to warrant the recording of the evidence and whether it is desirable to record it as a precaution against a witness changing his evidence.

(9) Inconsiderate punishments.—Inconsiderate punishments, as well as needlessly protracted punishments, shall be avoided and in awarding punishment regard shall be had to—

- (i) the necessity for prevention of crime or offences and for the maintenance of proper order and discipline;
- (ii) the gravity of the offence and the previous character of the offender;
- (iii) any consequences which may arise indirectly as a result of the offence or of the award, particularly in regard to the charges against the offender's pay for offences of absence or desertion, or for damage to or loss of stores and such other matters.

(10) In cases of repeated offences the effect of gradually increasing the degree of punishment until the maximum is reached shall be tried before awarding the maximum punishment.

(11) All altercations with excited or drunken men shall be avoided; no man under the influence of temper or drink shall be placed in a situation likely to excite him further and thereby lead him to acts of violence or insubordination.

26. Assistance to the accused.—(1) If the alleged offence is one which may be brought before the Commanding Officer, the accused may request and shall be afforded at the earliest stage at which this is practicable, the assistance of any officer or other person in his ship whose assistance is reasonably available.

(2) If no such request is made, it shall be the duty of the Divisional Officer or such other officer as the Commanding Officer may detail, having regard to the requirements of the case, to advise the accused at all stages.

(3) The officer or person advising the accused may be changed at any stage either at the request of the accused or on account of exigencies of service.

27. Procedure at investigations in general.—(1) At all investigations the evidence in support of the charge shall be heard first.

(2) Immediately after the charge has been read out, the investigating officer shall warn the accused that he should not make any statement or give any evidence on his own behalf until all the evidence against him has been heard.

(3) On conclusion of the evidence in support of the charge, the investigating officer shall decide whether a case has been made out against the accused.

(4) If there is no case, the investigating officer shall either dismiss the case or, if further evidence is likely to become available, stand it over and if there is a prima facie case, and it is a simple one with which the investigating officer thinks he can deal with himself, he shall ask the accused if he admits the charge.

(5) If the accused does not admit the charge and the matter is one within the investigating officer's powers of punishment, he shall inform the accused that he will proceed to try the case, giving him an opportunity of making a statement and calling witnesses.

28. Investigation by the Officer of the Watch, the Officer of the Day, or the Executive Officer.—(1) If, after hearing the evidence in support of the charge, the Officer of the Watch, the Officer of the Day or the Executive Officer is of opinion that the charge, if proved, would be beyond his power to punish, he must bear in mind that a confession made before him by the accused will not be admissible in evidence at any further proceedings unless the accused has been cautioned, before he speaks, that he is not obliged to say anything unless he wishes to do so, and that any statement he may make may be given in evidence. Care should be taken to avoid any suggestion that the accused's answers can only be used in evidence against him, as this may discourage an innocent person from making a statement which might help to clear him of the charge. The investigating officer must also bear in mind that in cases beyond his powers of punishment his functions are to see whether there is a prima facie case, to collect evidence when it is important that evidence be collected immediately, and, to give the accused a chance to make a statement. If the alleged offence is one which is likely in itself to lead at least to a warrant punishment (as distinct from one which may lead to a warrant punishment because it is the culminating offence in a series of minor offences), the investigating officer should address the accused in the following words after hearing the evidence in support of the charges:—

“Do you wish to say anything in answer to the charges? You are not obliged to say anything unless you wish to do so; but whatever you say will be taken down in writing and may be given in evidence.”

(2) The Officer of the Watch or the Officer of the Day need not use these words unless he decides to hear the defence before sending the case to the Executive Officer.

(3) If the accused makes a statement, it should be taken down in writing. On conclusion of this statement the investigating officer should not ask any question save to point out any ambiguity and ask if the accused wishes to clear it up, or to point out that no reference has been made to some charge and ask if the accused wishes to say anything about it. In particular, nothing must be said which indicates that the accused is expected to make any further statement.

(4) If he has not already done so, the investigating officer must then make up his mind whether the case against the accused has been made out. If he decides that no case has been made out, he is to dismiss the charge.

(5) If the investigating officer decides to refer the case to higher authority, the accused is to be informed accordingly, the customary terminology “Commander’s report” or “Captain’s report”, as the case may be, being used.

29. Investigation by the Commanding Officer.—(1) The investigation of any offence by the Commanding Officer shall also be regulated so far as may be by the preceding regulations.

(2) If, after hearing the evidence in support of the charges, the Commanding Officer is of opinion that there is a prima facie case and that the charges, if proved, would be within his power to punish, he shall proceed to try the case.

(3) If the Commanding Officer decides to apply for trial by court-martial, or to give a warrant punishment, the accused shall be told that the case is "remanded".

(4) If the punishment to be awarded is likely to be imprisonment, detention, dismissal from the naval service or disrating, a summary of the evidence given by the witnesses shall be recorded.

30. Right to elect trial by court-martial.—If a Chief Petty Officer or Petty Officer is charged with an offence which, if proved, would justify his being summarily disrated, the following procedure shall be adopted:—

- (a) A formal and public investigation shall be held by the Commanding Officer, a careful summary of the evidence of the witnesses for and against being made at the time in such a way that it could, if necessary, be incorporated in the appropriate form in due course as a summary evidence.
- (b) Both before and during the investigation the accused shall be afforded the assistance under regulation 26.
- (c) At the conclusion of the investigation, the Commanding Officer, if he thinks that the offence, if proved, would deserve summary disrating, shall inform the accused that he can, if he desires it, be tried by court-martial and that a rating taken away by sentence of court-martial cannot be regained without submitting it to the Chief of the Naval Staff for approval, but the Captain Naval Barracks or the Commanding Officer would have the power to restore it if the disrating is summarily effected by warrant.
- (d) If the accused, within twenty-four hours of such information indicates that he does not wish to be tried by court-martial, and the Commanding Officer decides that disrating is the appropriate punishment, necessary steps shall be taken to obtain the approval on the warrant, of a Flag Officer or Commodore to whom reference can most conveniently be made, the warrant being accompanied by a summary of the evidence. Each of the witnesses shall sign the summary of the evidence he has given. The warrant shall be signed, but neither dated nor read until the necessary approval has been obtained, but if such approval cannot be obtained within a reasonable period, the Commanding Officer may award the sentence himself, reporting the circumstances without delay to the appropriate Administrative Authority.

- (e) Should the accused elect to be tried by court-martial, the necessary steps for that purpose shall be taken.
- (f) Should the exigencies of service, such as a single ship being on detached service, not permit a court-martial to be assembled within a reasonable period the senior officer present may, if he considers it necessary, direct the Commanding Officer to deal with the case summarily and if in these circumstances, the Commanding Officer disrates a Chief Petty Officer or Petty Officer, the appropriate Administrative Authority shall order a board of enquiry to assemble at the earliest possible date; if the report of the enquiry indicates that a lighter punishment would have been sufficient, the said authority may restore the rating from a date to be fixed by him. The accused and the complainant together with the defending officer shall be present during the whole of the time that witnesses are being examined before the board of enquiry. A report, including the minutes of the enquiry, and a copy of the warrant shall be forwarded by the Administrative Authority to the Chief of the Naval Staff.

31. Identification of suspects.—(1) When an offence has been committed and it is possible that witnesses may not be certain of the identity of the person apprehended, an identity parade shall be held.

(2) The accused shall fall in with, if possible, at least eight other persons of the same or similar height, age, appearance and rig as himself.

(3) The accused shall be allowed to stand where he pleases and shall be asked whether he has any objection to the arrangements.

(4) The accused's Divisional Officer or the officer or other person who may have been appointed to advise and assist him shall attend the parade, but other spectators shall not be allowed to do so.

(5) The witnesses shall be admitted one by one and each witness shall be asked to identify the suspect and his reaction shall be recorded.

(6) If a witness desires it, all the persons on the parade shall be ordered to remove or replace their caps, speak, walk, or do anything else that would assist in identification; all such actions are to be recorded.

(7) After each witness has withdrawn, the accused shall be given an opportunity to change his position in the rank.

(8) Witnesses who have inspected the parade shall be segregated from those who have not and steps shall be taken to ensure that no witness sees the suspect before he is fallen in with others in the position of his choice, and that no witness sees photographs or is given any description of the suspect before the parade.

32. Postponement of investigation.—Where the accused is on the sick list, the investigation may, at the discretion of the Commanding Officer be postponed until the accused is fit for duty.

33. Scrutiny of service documents.—(1) The service documents of the accused shall not be scrutinised by the Commanding Officer or investigating officer until the accused has made his statement or stated that he does not intend to make a statement.

(2) The Commanding Officer or the investigating officer, having decided whether or not the case against the accused has been made out, may examine the accused's service record in order to decide whether to deal with the case himself or refer it to higher authority; and such examination shall not be deemed to form a conviction of the accused.

SECTION III

REGULATIONS FOR INDIVIDUAL PUNISHMENTS, IMPRISONMENT AND DETENTION (Nos. 1 and 2)

34. When to be awarded.—(1) Sentences of imprisonment should normally be confined to sailors who have already undergone several sentences of detention without effect, and to other sailors who are also to be dismissed from Service.

(2) Imprisonment may, however, be awarded in lieu of detention when there is no detention accommodation available in naval detention quarters in which case a note to that effect shall be made on the punishment warrant and on the Advancement and Conduct Record Sheet.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-regulations (1) and (2) persons below the age of twenty-one shall not be summarily sentenced to imprisonment except for grave civil offences and (in such cases) detention may be awarded even though they are not to be retained in service.

(4) A sentence of ninety days shall not be awarded if that period exceeds three calendar months.

(5) Detention shall not be awarded for a period of less than ten days.

(6) In addition to the consequential punishment provided in sub-section (9) of section 82 a sentence of imprisonment or detention shall carry with it deprivation of Good Conduct Medal and Badges.

35. Imprisonment.—(1) The sentence of imprisonment may be rigorous or simple, or partly rigorous and partly simple.

(2) The Commanding Officer, in awarding sentence of imprisonment, shall not direct that the prisoner shall be kept in solitary confinement during any period of his imprisonment.

(3) A sentence of simple imprisonment shall not be ordinarily awarded except in cases where the proper Medical Officer certifies that the offender is not in a fit physical condition to undergo rigorous imprisonment.

36. Restriction in the case of certain sailors.—(1) Chief Petty Officers and Petty Officers who can be disrated shall not be sentenced summarily to imprisonment or detention except for desertion and they shall not be sentenced summarily to imprisonment or detention and disrated at the same time unless their offence includes desertion.

(2) Chief Petty Officer and Petty Officers who cannot be disrated, leading ratings and sailors wearing Good Conduct Badges shall not be sentenced summarily to imprisonment or detention except for the following offences namely:—

- (a) Highly insubordinate conduct.
- (b) Desertion, or deserting post.
- (c) Sleeping on watch.
- (d) Indecent acts of an immoral character.
- (e) Theft or fraud.

- (j) Aggravated or repeated leave-breaking.
- (k) Flagrant contravention of the censorship regulations.
- (l) Flagrant contravention of gasoline, ammunition, or damage control regulations, which endanger life, the ship, aircraft or establishment.

37. Dismissal from naval service (No. 3).—(1) Although an offender considered unworthy of retention may be punished with summary dismissal, he shall not be awarded before the various punishments to which he has rendered himself liable have been inflicted upon him and found to have no effect; nor such punishment shall be awarded if the Chief of the Naval Staff considers that he is likely to reform if transferred to another ship.

(2) A sailor who has committed an offence deserving imprisonment shall, if his past record clearly shows that he is unworthy of retention, be punished with imprisonment and dismissal.

NOTE.—(a) Imprisonment followed by discharge “S.N.L.R.” (services no longer required), shall not be normally appropriate.

(b) A sentence of dismissal shall not normally be accompanied by a sentence of detention except in the case of offender below the age of twenty one.

(3) As dismissal does not automatically entail any other punishment, disrating or the deprivation of Good Conduct Medal or Badges shall be included in the sentence if appropriate.

(4) An order for the dismissal of a person from naval service, whether accompanied by other punishments or not shall be made only by the Chief of the Naval Staff, and no punishment shall be inflicted on such person until a decision has been obtained on the question whether such person should be dismissed from naval service or not.

(5) If a person dismissed from naval service desires it and there is no objection on the part of the local authorities to his landing, he may be dismissed abroad, and where such person desires to return home, he may be sent at the first opportunity by a naval ship or merchant vessel.

(6) Where such person is sent in a naval ship under sub-regulation (5), its Commanding Officer shall be informed of his offences, and the Commanding Officer shall not order him to work except in emergency and on arrival in India such person shall be immediately discharged to shore.

DISRATING (No. 4)

38. Summary disrating.—(1) A sailor may be disrated to any rate in his own category or to any lower class in his rate, provided that no sailor shall be disrated—

- (a) below the limits laid down in the regulations for the time being in force governing the advancement of sailors.
- (b) below, either actually or relatively, the rating in which he first entered or re-entered, if service in the latter event was not continuous and re-entry was under a fresh engagement.

(2) Whenever a sailor is summarily disrated for misconduct or is disrated following conviction by a civil authority under sub-regulation (4) of regulation 119, a note in writing giving the offences shall be attached to the sailor's Service Certificate which shall remain there until he is reinstated in his former rate.

39. Acting rating.—(1) A sailor holding an acting rating may be disrated by warrant as a punishment in accordance with the usual procedure and the disrating shall have the usual effect on assessment of character, Good Conduct Badges and the like.

(2) If such sailor commits an offence which, though indicating an unfitness for the higher rating, is not considered sufficiently serious to merit disrating by warrant, and if his general conduct is otherwise unsatisfactory, he may be reverted by his Commanding Officer for unsuitability in which case the penalties which follow disrating by warrant shall not be applicable.

40. Fine in respect of civil offences (No. 5).—A fine not exceeding rupees one hundred may be imposed summarily when a sailor is found guilty of a civil offence.

MULCTS OF PAY AND ALLOWANCES (NO. 6) FOR IMPROPER ABSENCE

41. Scale of Mulcts.—(1) Except as provided in this regulation every sailor who is found guilty of absence without leave or improperly leaving his ship or place of duty shall be punished with mulcts of pay and stoppage of leave in accordance with the following scale namely:—

- (a) Where the period of absence does not exceed three hours, one day's pay and one day's leave;
- (b) Where the period of absence exceeds three hours but does not exceed thirty six hours, one day's pay and one day's leave for every three hours of absence or part thereof;
- (c) Where the period of absence exceeds thirty six hours, one day's pay and one day's leave for every three hours of absence upto thirty six hours and one day's pay for each subsequent period of six hours or part of six hours, so, however, that the stoppage of leave shall in no case exceed sixty days.

(2) If the period of absence is trivial or if there are extenuating circumstances and the period of improper absence does not exceed thirty six hours the Commanding Officer may, at his discretion, reduce the mulcts by such an amount as he may consider reasonable; the stoppage of leave being reduced to a corresponding extent.

(3) The provisions of sub-regulation (2) shall apply to leave-breaking upto thirty six hours dealt with in conjunction with other offences.

(4) If the period of absence exceeds thirty six hours or the offence is aggravated or repeated, any other punishment permitted by these regulations may be awarded according to the degree of offence, in addition to the mulcts of pay and stoppage of leave on the scale mentioned in sub-regulation (1) and if there are mitigating circumstances justifying exceptional treatment, the Commanding Officer may at his discretion, reduce the mulcts, provided that the actual mulcts (i.e. excluding detention or confinement in cell) shall not be reduced to less than one day's pay for each day's absence and where the stoppage of leave according to the said scale would amount to thirty days or less it may also be correspondingly reduced.

(5) Stoppage of leave for any period in excess of the scale shall not be awarded as a punishment for leave-breaking, except in aggravated or repeated cases and sailors shall not be reduced to second class for conduct for leave-breaking offences unless it is an aggravated or fourth (or more often) repeated offence.

42. Remission of mulcts over sixty days.—(1) If the number of days mulcts in accordance with sub-regulation (1) of regulation 41, or if the period of sentence to which a leave-breaker is confined by reason of the punishment of detention or solitary confinement in a cell plus the number of days mulcts, would amount to a total of more than sixty days, any excess mulcts shall be remitted provided that in no case shall the actual mulcts (i.e. excluding the punishment of detention or confinement in cell) be reduced to less than one day's pay for each day's absence.

(2) The provisions of sub-regulation (1) shall apply also to cases where imprisonment is awarded owing to lack of detention accommodation and such provisions shall not apply to cases where, on other grounds, imprisonment is awarded in preference to detention, or where on the same occasion, the offender is also convicted of any offence other than leave-breaking.

(3) If, however, exceptional hardship is involved, the circumstances should be submitted to the Chief of the Naval Staff for consideration.

(4) In all cases where a sailor has been sentenced to stoppage of leave exceeding thirty days, he shall be allowed ashore leave once a week, after the expiration of the first thirty days.

(5) Nothing in this regulation shall be deemed to fetter the discretion of the Commanding Officer to reduce the mulcts to the extent provided in regulation 41.

43. General provision regarding mulcts.—(1) For the purpose of these regulations a day's pay shall include full pay and allowances but shall not include extra pay, kit upkeep allowance and kindred allowances.

(2) The scale of mulcts shall not apply to sailors who desert and who are consequently marked 'Run' on the books.

(3) Mulcts of pay for leave-breaking and for drunkenness on leave shall be debited against the offender's account in one sum, calculated at the rate of pay in force on the date of sentence, as modified by such sentence in case of disrating, deprivation of badges or reduction to second class for conduct and the sum so debited shall be regarded as a definite fine for the offence, and shall not subsequently be altered, as when an increase of pay is granted with retrospective effect, or when an offender may be credited with the balance of the increased emoluments for days upon which he would otherwise have been mulcted in full.

(4) The provisions of sub-regulation (3) shall not apply to forfeiture of pay during confinement in cells.

44. Limits of punishment and acts constituting main offence.—(1) The maximum summary punishment for leave-breaking that should as a rule be awarded shall be detention and except for an aggravated offence, such punishment shall not exceed thirty days.

(2) The act of not returning to duty at the time ordered shall constitute the main offence against discipline and the aggravation of the offence shall depend upon the time for which a sailor remains absent which shall be dealt with on its merits in each case.

(3) Leave-breaking offences shall invariably be described on the punishment warrant or in the Daily Record of Offences as follows:—

“Did remain absent over leave hours minutes, namely, from to”.

45. Application of regulations 41 to 44.—(1) The provisions of regulations 41 to 44 shall apply to breaking out of ship, breaking away from a landing party and other cases of improper absence other than leave-breaking and desertion, except that any punishment applicable to the offence may be awarded in addition to mulcts of pay and stoppage of leave, and it shall not be necessary to limit the period of detention for offences of this description in ordinary cases.

(2) The provisions of regulations 41 to 44 shall not apply to sailors who are only absent from a particular part of their ship.

46. Calculation of period of absence.—(1) The period of improper absence included in the charge shall strictly be computed from the time when leave expires (or the time of breaking out) until the time of return to the ship or place of duty.

(2) When a sailor surrenders or is apprehended as an absentee away from the locality in which his leave expires, the Commanding Officer may, having regard to the circumstances, consider the absence as having terminated at the time of such surrender or apprehension, but if a lengthy journey is involved in returning to the place where leave expired, the time involved in such journey may be included in computing the period of absence.

(3) When an absentee is arrested by the civil authority on another charge and is subsequently handed over to the naval authorities, his absence without leave shall be regarded as ceasing from the time of his arrest by the civil authority.

47. Simple leave-breaking.—Unless the offence is a repeated or aggravated offence, the punishment for an offence of leave-breaking involving improper absence of not more than thirty six hours shall be confined to mulcts of pay and stoppage of leave, but if the offence was the sequel to an offence of improperly leaving a ship or place of duty, other punishments may be awarded in addition.

48. Aggravated offences.—(1) For the purpose of regulations 41 to 47 an offence of leave-breaking shall be deemed to be aggravated:—

- (a) if the absence exceeds thirty six hours;
- (b) if the absentee misses his ship or draft;
- (c) if, when leave was granted, a warning had been given that the ship was under sailing orders;
- (d) if the offender was undergoing any form of punishment at the time;
- (e) if there are any other particularly serious circumstances.

(2) The charge in a case of aggravated leave-breaking may refer to the offence as aggravated, but the charge shall not contain anything which directly or indirectly refers to a previous offence.

49. Repeated offences.—(1) A repeated offence of leave-breaking is one committed in the same ship or establishment within six months of a previous leave-breaking offence.

(2) A subsequent repeated offence is one committed within six months of a previous repeated offence.

(3) When a sailor is drafted to another establishment solely to undergo detention and afterwards returns direct to the ship or establishment in which he was sentenced, his service shall be regarded as continuous in that ship or establishment for the purpose of assessing whether an offence subsequently committed should be considered as a repeated offence.

50. Drunkenness.—(1) A mulct of one day's pay shall be inflicted for all offences of drunkenness in a ship or while absent on duty, or on returning from shore, whether such return is voluntary or otherwise and a similar mulct shall be inflicted upon men who are drunk when received in the naval or other custody, whether from leave or not, and, if from leave, whether their leave has expired or not, unless the offender has already been dealt with by the civil authority.

(2) For the offence of drunkenness in a ship or while absent on duty, additional punishments may be awarded, at the Commanding Officer's discretion.

(3) For the first offence of returning from leave drunk, sailors below leading rating, provided they do not otherwise misbehave, shall not be awarded any punishment, other than the mulct of pay and if such offence is repeated or the sailors otherwise misbehave, they may be awarded other punishments.

(4) Chief Petty Officer, Petty Officer, and leading ratings may be disrated, even for a first offence of returning from leave drunk if the commanding Officer considers it necessary in addition to being mulcted one day's pay.

(5) In awarding punishments for drunkenness on leave, the Commanding Officer shall take into consideration the circumstances of each case as regards the disgrace or discredit brought on the uniform, the Service, or the position which the offender holds.

REDUCTION TO THE SECOND CLASS FOR CONDUCT (NO. 7)

51. Classification for conduct.—(1) All sailors on first entering or re-entering the Indian Navy shall be in the first class for conduct, except when entered or re-entered in ratings which are not classed for conduct and sailors received from other ships shall be placed in the class for conduct last noted in their Service Certificate.

(2) Sailors holding leading ratings and above, sailors in possession of Good Conduct Badges and boys shall not be classed for conduct.

(3) Chief Petty Officers, Petty Officers and leading sailors shall only be reduced to second class for conduct on being disrated below a leading rating and deprived of all Good Conduct Badges and other sailors may be reduced to the second class for conduct if deprived of all Good Conduct Badges, or if not in possession of any.

52. Offences for which punishment is awarded.—(1) Reduction to second class for conduct shall be awarded to sailors for whose continual slackness or misconduct the repeated award of lesser punishments has proved ineffective and when such punishment is awarded to such sailors, the circumstances should be brought out on the punishment warrant by inserting after the charge the entry "This being the culminating offence of a series of minor offences": Provided that such entry shall not form part of the actual charge framed.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-regulation (1) such punishment shall be awarded only for the following offences, namely :—

- (a) Gross insubordination.
- (b) Dishonesty.
- (c) Gross misconduct on shore, when not dealt with by the civil authority.

- (j) Continual neglect of duty.
- (k) Quitting ship, boat or working party without leave.
- (l) Flagrant contravention of the censorship Regulations.
- (m) Desertion:

Provided that such punishment shall not normally be awarded for first offences and to sailors with good records:

Provided further that such punishment shall not be awarded in conjunction with the sentence of cells, detention or imprisonment unless there are exceptional circumstances which render such heavy additional punishment necessary.

(3) The punishment under this regulation shall require the approval of a Flag Officer or Commodore, and if prior approval cannot be obtained within a reasonable period, it may be dispensed with, but the circumstances shall be reported without delay to the appropriate Administrative Authority and a copy of the correspondence shall be attached to the relative punishment warrant.

53. Penalties.—(1) Sailors in the second class for conduct shall not be employed on special or isolated duties, but they may be ordered to fall in for inspection at such times as the Commanding Officer may appoint and may be given such extra drill in the dog watches, not exceeding one hour a day, as the Commanding Officer may consider necessary for their improvement.

(2) Sailors in the second class for conduct shall not be advanced to ratings that are not classed for conduct.

(3) The total pay of sailors in the second class for conduct shall be reduced by one-sixth of their pay when not in that class:

Provided that credits of extra pay, M.L.R. (Money in lieu of rations), kit upkeep allowance and kindred allowances shall not be subjected to the said reduction.

(4) Immediately on being reduced to the second class for conduct, and until the offenders are restored to the first class, the entry "second class for conduct" shall clearly be noted in red ink on their Advancement and Conduct Record Sheets.

54. Restoration.—(1) The restoration to the first class of a sailor reduced to the second class for conduct shall be considered by the Commanding Officer after one month from the date of reduction and thereafter at monthly intervals and where the Commanding Officer is satisfied with the behaviour of a sailor reduced to second class for conduct and has reason to believe that he wishes to reform, he may restore the sailor to the first class at any time after one month from the date of reduction.

(2) If the sailor leaves the ship while in the second class for conduct, the Commanding Officer shall note on the Conduct Sheet the date on which he proposed to restore the sailor to the first class.

(3) Notwithstanding any sentence of imprisonment, detention, cell punishment, or time lost in desertion, restoration to the first class shall not be deferred beyond six calendar months from the date of reduction and if a sailor deserts while in the second class and is not recovered before the expiration of six months from the date of reduction, such punishment shall be deemed to have terminated on recovery.

(4) Subject to the maximum period of six months in the second class not being exceeded, time for which pay is not allowed shall not be counted towards restoration, except the period covered by the sentence of imprisonment, detention, or confinement in cells which may be allowed to count when a sailor conducts himself well and is considered deserving of such consideration and a sailor in prison or under detention shall be recommended for this privilege by the Officer-in-Charge of the establishment, the necessary report being obtained by the Commanding Officer upon each sailor received from detention.

(5) Restorations shall be made when they become due, whether the sailor prefers his claim or not.

(6) If, however, on account of any particular act of gallantry, or other exceptionally meritorious behaviour, the Commanding Officer should consider a sailor to be deserving of restoration to the first class before he has been one month in the second class, a Flag Officer or a Commodore may approve of such restoration.

(7) The class for conduct shall be noted on the conduct sheet and on the service certificate.

Explanation.—The period of desertion shall not count towards the minimum period of one month referred to in sub-regulation (1).

(8) If the Commanding Officer is of opinion, on the advice of the Medical Officer or otherwise, that strict adherence to the provisions of this regulation would permanently affect the health of any offender, the Commanding Officer may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, relax all or any of such provisions with respect to that offender.

(4) The Commanding Officer may at his discretion take away one badge, but not more, without depriving the sailor of his medal, if his conduct has been in all other respects satisfactory, notwithstanding that the deprivation of a badge may necessitate the award of the entry "Good" at the annual assessment of character; provided that such discretion shall be exercised in favour of any sailor only once.

(5) If a badge should be taken away without loss of the medal, the medal shall not be worn until the badge is regained.

(6) A sailor who receives any of the following punishments shall be deprived of the medal, namely:—

STOPPAGE OF LEAVE (NO. 12)

67. Stoppage of leave.—(1) As stoppage of leave, in common with other punishments, commences from the date on which it is awarded and runs continuously from that date and as it may not be awarded for more than 60 days, stoppage of leave should be considered ineffective if given in conjunction with the sentence of imprisonment or detention of 60 days or more.

(2) When stoppage of leave is awarded for leave-breaking, it shall not exceed the scale laid down except for aggravated or repeated offences.

(3) Stoppage of leave may also be awarded in appropriate cases for any other offence either as the only punishment or with another punishment.

(4) While under stoppage of leave, a sailor shall not be allowed to leave the ship or establishment except on duty; he may, however, be allowed to proceed on long leave at the discretion of the Commanding Officer.

69. Other instructions.—Drill shall be performed wearing correct drill order only and when drill would have to be carried out in sight of civilian onlookers, extra work shall be substituted.

ADMONITION (NO. 14)

70. Admonition.—(1) When a sailor is found guilty of an offence which, of itself or in view of the mitigating circumstances, is not considered to deserve any more serious punishment, he shall be admonished as in the case of a first trivial offence of leave-breaking when a mulct is not imposed.

(2) The offence and the punishment shall be recorded.

71. Special directions.—In regard to all summary punishments, the following further directions shall be observed, namely:—

Unless the Commanding Officer is satisfied of this, or if he is satisfied that the Apprentice or the Boy, as the case may be, really found the article lying about, he should be charged with being guilty of neglect to the prejudice of good order and naval discipline in not handing over to the proper authority the articles which, to his knowledge, had come into his possession without the consent of the owners.

CHAPTER IV

DISCIPLINE

ARREST—SUSPENSION OF SENTENCES—PRISONS AND DETENTION QUARTERS—DESERTERS—CIVIL AUTHORITY

SECTION I

ARREST AND NAVAL CUSTODY

89. Arrest.—(1) If an officer disobeys orders or otherwise misbehaves, he may be placed under arrest, and a report of the particulars of the offence shall be forwarded by the Commanding Officer to the Chief of the Naval Staff as soon as possible, but if the Commanding Officer should be induced from any circumstances to release him from arrest, and to withdraw or allow to be withdrawn the charges against him, such officer shall return to his duty without prejudice to future investigation of any complaint which the Commanding Officer may make relative to such arrest.

(2) If the Commanding Officer considers the cause for placing an officer under arrest to be of such a nature as to necessitate its being brought before a court-martial, but if circumstances of the service should render it necessary that the officer under arrest should be released without the withdrawal of the charge against him, he may so release him, and the officer or sailor shall return to his duty accordingly, without prejudice to his future trial or the inquiry into the charge on which he was placed under arrest.

(3) When an officer or sailor is placed under arrest, the Commanding Officer shall take care that no more restraint is put upon his personal liberty than the discipline of the Service requires and the nature of his offence may render expedient.

Explanation.—Arrest is not a punishment but only a means adopted to ensure the safe custody of an offender until he can be dealt with adequately.

90. Prescribed officer for purposes of section 85.—The prescribed officer for the purpose of section 85 shall in the case of sailors be the Executive Officer.

91. Suspension of an officer from duty.—Suspension of an officer (independent of arrest) may be ordered by the Commanding Officer (of or above the rank of Lieutenant-Commander) of the ship to which the officer belongs or by any other superior authority—

(a) when the officer submits his case for investigation;

- (b) in any case in which the officer's character or conduct as an officer and a gentleman is impugned;
- (c) when the officer is charged with any offence triable by court-martial; or
- (d) when any criminal proceedings are pending against him in an ordinary criminal court.

92. Naval custody.—(1) The Commanding Officer shall be responsible for the safe custody of every person, offender, or prisoner who is placed in naval custody in the ship or establishment.

(2) Such custody may be open or close, according to the circumstances of each case and at the discretion of the Commanding Officer.

Explanation.—Open custody involves only such restraint as may be necessary for safe custody, whereas close custody involves deprivation of all liberty and continuous supervision, and is equivalent to confinement in the sense in which it is used in sub-section (2) of section 151.

93. Offenders awaiting imprisonment or detention.—Persons under sentence of imprisonment or detention, while on passage in Indian Naval Ships, shall not be called upon to do any duty except in case of emergency and they may be dealt with as prisoners at large (kept in open custody), when the circumstances permit, but they shall be restrained or confined, if necessary, for safe custody or to prevent further misconduct.

94. Offenders under sentence.—Offenders who may be in naval custody while undergoing a sentence of imprisonment or detention shall, as far as possible, be subject to the following provisions:—

- (a) They shall not be allowed to communicate by letter with any person nor to receive any letter or visit without permission of the Chief of the Naval Staff and any letters written by or to them with such permission shall first be read by the Commanding Officer of the ship, who shall use his discretion in communicating or withholding their contents.

- (b) Any visit allowed to them must take place in the presence of an officer.

(2) Such measures as are necessary for the proper enforcement of the provisions of clauses (a) and (b) of sub-regulation (1) shall be taken in Indian Naval Ships and no departure from the said provisions shall be made, save in exceptional circumstances, when the Commanding Officer may act according to his discretion, reporting the circumstances to the Chief of the Naval Staff.

95. Sickness of accused persons and offenders.—(1) An offender awaiting transfer to prison or detention quarters or a person awaiting trial, by court martial or otherwise, for a serious offence, shall not be sent to hospital without the sanction of the senior officer present and where such offender or person is sent to the hospital, the Commanding Officer or the Medical Officer-in-Charge of the hospital shall be informed that the person is to be considered as under arrest and shall also be informed into which of the following categories he falls:—

- (a) Offender sentenced on to (period) imprisonment or detention by court-martial;
- (b) (i) Accused person awaiting trial by court-martial or a criminal Court.
(ii) Recovered deserter whose case has not yet been dealt with.
(iii) Accused person whose case has been investigated and charge proved, but punishment not awarded.
- (c) Offender sentenced summarily on to (period) imprisonment or detention or confinement in the cells.
- (d) Accused person awaiting summary trial.

Details of the nature of the offence, the punishment awarded and the number and date of the punishment warrant shall also be sent, if appropriate.

(2) An officer or sailor being an offender awaiting transfer to prison or a person awaiting trial, by court martial or otherwise, for a serious offence, shall not be brought forward for medical survey with a view to invaliding without the special directions of the Chief of the Naval Staff and when a survey is held under such directions, the result shall be reported by the Surveying Officer specially to the Chief of the Naval Staff who shall, subject to the provisions of sub-regulations (3) to (6) decide as to the disposal of the person concerned.

(3) The Chief of the Naval Staff shall not, in consequence of the report of the surveying officer, authorise any step which will result in an accused person escaping trial unless the surveying officer certifies that his mental condition at the date of the alleged offence was such that he was not responsible for his actions, or that his physical or mental condition is such that even the fact of being tried, apart from any sentence that might be awarded, would be likely to impair his health permanently and if the surveying officer certifies that a person awaiting trial for desertion was not responsible for his actions at the time of the alleged desertion, the Chief of the Naval Staff shall obtain the directions of the Government whether the notation of desertion is to be removed.

(4) The Chief of the Naval Staff shall not, in consequence of the report of the surveying officer, authorise any step which will result in a person under sentence of imprisonment or detention escaping the residue of the sentence, unless the surveying officer certifies that the offender is medically unfit to undergo even a modified prison or detention routine, as the case may be and if such a medical certificate is furnished, the offender may, provided that he is not to be dismissed or discharged for misconduct, be invalided from the service; but care shall be taken that the sentence is duly entered in his Service Certificate and elsewhere as necessary.

(5) The medical certificate furnished under sub-regulation (4) shall be forwarded to the Government in order that the residue of the sentence may formally be remitted.

(6) If the surveying officer certifies that the offender's mental condition on the date of his offence must have been such that he was not then responsible for his action, the Chief of the Naval Staff shall immediately obtain the directions of the Government whether the sentence is to stand or be annulled.

SECTION II

SUSPENSION OF SENTENCES

96. Suspension of sentence.—(1) The power of suspending a sentence of imprisonment or detention under section 164 may be exercised when a sailor of good reputation has committed himself because of some long-continued strain, or in circumstances which lead the Commanding Officer or superior authority to believe that he will retrieve his good name, or when the sailor's services are required for a dangerous or arduous duty which would otherwise be avoided, or to enable a deserter or persistent leave-breaker who is considered to be capable of reformation to be drafted to sea, so that he may be removed from the temptation to repeat his offence.

(2) Officers shall, as far as possible, use this power freely whenever they can do so without detriment to discipline, and when the offender is likely by his conduct, to justify the confidence placed in him; but a sentence shall never be suspended when it is intended that the offender shall not return to the Service.

97. Court-martial sentence.—(1) If the officer who ordered the court-martial or any other officer having power to suspend a sentence considers, either upon a perusal of the minutes or upon receiving recommendation from the court that the sentence should be suspended, he shall, instead of issuing a committal order, give an order in writing that the sentence is to be suspended until an order of committal is issued.

(2) When an order suspending a court-martial sentence has been made under sub-regulation (1), the accused shall be—

- (i) informed by his Commanding Officer that it has been decided to suspend his sentence, that his case will be reviewed periodically, and that, if his subsequent conduct is such as to justify a remission of the sentence, it will be remitted,
- (ii) warned that, if the continuity of his "V G." conduct is broken or if his behaviour is in any way unsatisfactory while he is on probation, the sentence may be enforced; and
- (iii) released from custody.

(3) In all cases where a sentence passed by court-martial is suspended, the intimation thereof shall be sent immediately to the Chief of the Naval Staff together with a statement of the reasons for suspension of the sentence.

98. Summary punishment.—With the concurrence of the authority who approves a punishment warrant for imprisonment or detention, the Commanding Officer may, instead of issuing a committal order, give an order in writing that the sentence shall be suspended until an order of committal is issued and if such authority is not present at the place, the Commanding Officer shall use his discretion in the matter.

(2) At any time after a committal order has been issued, the officer who signed the committal order may order the residue of the sentence to be suspended.

(3) When the Commanding Officer suspends a sentence, he shall make a report thereof when the Punishment Return is forwarded.

(4) When a sentence has been suspended, either before or after an order of committal has been issued, the offender shall be released from custody and informed by his Commanding Officer that his case will be reviewed periodically, and that the enforcement or remission of the remaining portion of the sentence will depend on his conduct remaining "V.G."

(5) When a sailor whose sentence has been suspended is drafted to another ship or establishment, the fact that a sentence is under suspension shall be notified immediately by letter to his new Commanding Officer, who should also be told whether the sailor's conduct to-date has been such as to deserve remission in due course.

99. Period of suspension.—(1) A sentence which has been suspended, either before or after a committal order has been issued, shall remain suspended until such an order has been issued or re-issued or the sentence has been finally remitted.

(2) A sentence may remain suspended for twelve months, unless the sailor commits himself in the meantime, but under no circumstances shall the sentence remain suspended for a longer period except when the issue of a committal order has not been possible because the sailor has deserted or been absent without leave.

100. Reconsideration of court-martial sentence.—(1) A court-martial sentence which has been suspended may be reconsidered at intervals of not more than three months, unless it has been put into execution in the meantime, and on these occasions the individual shall be brought before the Commanding Officer, who should take the opportunity of reviewing the circumstances and warning him that he is still under probation.

(2) The Commanding Officer shall make a report on the sailor's conduct, recommending whether the sentence should remain suspended or be remitted, to the Chief of the Naval Staff who shall, if he considers that the offender's conduct justifies remission, remit the sentence accordingly.

(3) If at any time during the probationary period the continuity of a sailor's "V.G." conduct is broken or his behaviour is in any way unsatisfactory, the sentence may be enforced and the Commanding Officer shall forward a report as in sub-regulation (2) and a committal order shall be issued by the Chief of the Naval Staff or by the officer ordering the court-martial by which the sailor was sentenced.

(4) Administrative Authorities shall ensure that the reconsideration of suspended sentence is duly carried out at intervals of not more than three months.

101. Reconsideration of summary sentence.—(1) The Commanding Officer of the ship to which the sailor for the time being belongs shall reconsider the sentence as in the foregoing regulation and decide whether the rest of the sentence shall be finally remitted or remain suspended, informing the sailor of his decision.

(2) If during the probationary period the continuity of the sailor's "V.G." conduct is broken or his behaviour is in any way unsatisfactory, the Commanding Officer shall enforce the sentence by issuing the committal order.

(3) The review, remission or enforcement of a suspended sentence shall be reported when the Punishment Return is forwarded.

102. Offences during suspension.—(1) If a person whose sentence has been suspended commits a further offence for which he is sentenced to imprisonment or detention, any officer having power to issue a committal order in respect of the second sentence or any officer having power to issue or re-issue committal order in respect of the first may, subject to any recommendations to the contrary made by the court or officer who tried him for the second offence, order the sentences to run concurrently or consecutively, but, if two sentences of detention amount in the aggregate to more than two years, the excess shall be remitted and where the second sentence is awarded under the Act and is one of imprisonment, a previous sentence of detention shall be remitted.

(2) A sentence of detention shall not be awarded if the offender is already under sentence of imprisonment.

103. Consequential Penalties.—(1) If a sentence is suspended before a committal order is issued, any consequential penalties which would be entailed by the infliction of the suspended punishment shall also be regarded as suspended unless and until the committal order is issued and any additional punishments which accompany a sentence of imprisonment or detention, like privates of pay, stoppage of leave, but are not consequential thereon, shall not be suspended.

(2) If a committal order is issued and the sentence is subsequently suspended, or if a sentence is suspended but a committal order is subsequently issued, all the consequential penalties and other consequences, namely,—

- (a) disrating;
- (b) deprivation of badges and medal;
- (c) effect upon character;
- (d) loss of pay and time,

shall be enforced in respect of so much of the sentence as is actually served.

(3) If a sentence which has been suspended is subsequently carried out, disrating, deprivation of badges and medal, loss of pay and time shall take effect from the date of committal.

(4) When a sentence of imprisonment or detention is suspended after committal, disrating and deprivation of badges and medal shall take effect from the date of sentence and loss of pay and time from the date of committal.

(5) For all sentences, effect upon character shall operate from the date of sentence.

104. Other consequential effects.—(1) A sentence of imprisonment or detention, even if suspended shall automatically cause a break in "V.G." conduct.

(2) If, at the time of assessment of character, an offender's sentence, or a portion thereof, is under suspension, the only penalties which shall be taken into consideration are the portion such sentence and the consequential penalties (if any) which have actually been enforced and if the suspended sentence or the suspended portion thereof is subsequently enforced, the character previously assessed shall be altered to that which is appropriate to the full sentence.

(3) All alterations in character under sub-regulation (2) shall be reported to the Captain, Naval Barracks, Bombay.

(4) Where a suspended sentence or the suspended portion of a sentence is carried out in the year following that in which the sentence was awarded, together with the sentence of imprisonment or detention, only the latter sentence shall be taken into account in assessing character at the end of the year, whether such sentences run consecutively or concurrently.

(5) If an offender under a suspended sentence deserts and is not recovered, or is not claimed for further service, his character shall be assessed as if the sentence has been carried out.

105. Record of suspension, etc. of sentence.—(1) The suspension of a sentence in whole or in part shall be recorded with full particulars of the offence and sentence on the Advancement and Conduct Record Sheet.

(2) Notations shall be made as follows in the "Time forfeited" column on page 4 of the Service Certificate, each notation being authenticated by the Commanding Officer's signature, with the date on which the sentence was either suspended, remitted or enforced:—

- | | |
|---|--|
| (a) Suspension of sentence before committal | Put "suspended" alongside the notation of the number of days awarded. |
| (b) Suspension of sentence after committal. | Insert in the appropriate column the number of days served, adding "Residue Suspended". |
| (c) Remission of suspended sentence | Rule through the notation "Suspended" or Residue Suspended and insert notation "Remitted" or "Residue remitted". |
| (d) Committal or re-committal following suspension of sentence or of residue of sentence. | Rule through the notation "Suspended" or "Residue suspended" and insert notation "Committed" or "Re-committed" as requisite. |

(3) Care shall be taken that the original notation which is ruled through is not obliterated.

110. Persons sentenced, how borne.—Persons sentenced summarily or by court-martial to imprisonment shall be borne on ship's book unless they will be discharged direct from the prison to civil life, when they are to be discharged from ship's book from the time of arrival at the prison or from the time the order for discharge from the Service is received.

111. Civil custody.—Sailors convicted by the civil authority, whether sentenced to imprisonment or not, shall continue to be borne on the books of the ship to which they belong unless they will not return to that ship, when they shall be dealt with as directed in regulation 110.

112. Sailors from ships about to sail.—(1) Sailors undergoing imprisonment or detention awarded summarily may, at the discretion of the senior naval officer present, be removed from confinement for the purpose of re-joining their ships before sailing, if a very few days of the sentence remain unexpired, or at any time, if the completion of the sentence will involve any serious inconvenience to the Service.

(2) If the Commanding Officer should consider it advisable that sailors should be so released, he shall report the matter at least three days before hand to the senior naval officer present and, with his approval, may issue an order in writing for the release of the offender.

(2) The Commanding Officer of a ship on whose books a sailor is borne on the date of release shall make arrangements for some proper person or

SECTION IV

CIVIL AUTHORITY

115. Arrest by civil authority.—(1) The Commanding Officer shall afford every facility to the civil authority in detecting and apprehending persons serving on board whose arrest is required on any criminal charge, but he shall require any police officer, or other civil officer coming on board to search for or apprehend such persons, to produce his warrant or to show satisfactory evidence of the capacity in which he acts.

(2) No officer or sailor in naval custody shall be claimed by the civil authorities for trial in a civil court, except on a direction made by a High Court under section 491 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 (5 of 1898), or under an order by the Government in this behalf.

(3) Such officer or sailor may, however, be surrendered voluntarily to answer a criminal charge if such charge is in respect of a civil offence more serious than the naval offence for which he is held in naval custody:

Provided that the previous approval of the Administrative Authority concerned shall, wherever possible be obtained before such a course is taken.

(4) Where a sailor has been arrested by any civil authority and afterwards admitted to bail, and the ship to which he belongs leaves the port before he is dealt with, he shall, if possible, be lent to a ship remaining at the port.

(5) A sailor who is left behind by his ship because of proceedings against him in a civil court, whether he is subsequently acquitted or convicted, shall be liable for the whole cost of rejoining his ship, but special cases in which, owing to the movement of the ship, it is considered that this liability should not be enforced, may be represented to the Chief of the Naval Staff.

(6) Where conviction has resulted, the travelling expenses incurred by the sailor as well as the penalty enforced by the court shall be taken into account by the Captain in considering the imposition of naval penalties and in similar circumstances abroad, the matter shall be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff for decision whether the sailor should bear the whole or any part of the expense of rejoining his ship.

(7) The Commanding Officer shall permit writs and other legal processes to be served on board provided no serious inconvenience is thereby caused to the service.

(8) When a subpoena or witness summons requiring attendance at any court of justice is served upon a member of ship's company, the Commanding Officer shall grant such leave as may be necessary, provided that the efficiency of the Service is not impaired thereby and if, in the opinion of the Commanding Officer such leave cannot be granted without so impairing the efficiency of the Service, he shall immediately report the circumstances, attaching all relevant documents, to the Administrative Authority for directions, and at the same time inform the officer of the court that he is so doing.

(9) Every Commanding Officer shall comply immediately with an application from the civil authority for an escort for a person under his command who is in civil custody.

116. Report of arrest, summons or conviction by the civil authority.—

(1) It is the duty of every officer who may be arrested by any civil authority, or may be summoned to appear before a court on a criminal charge, to report such arrest or summons, and any subsequent conviction or acquittal without delay to his Commanding Officer.

(2) Such arrest, summons or conviction of an officer shall be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff who shall inform the Government.

(3) The arrest or summons of a sailor by any civil authority shall also be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff who shall inform the Government when a sailor is charged with a serious offence like, murder and rape or when there is likely to be more than the usual publicity.

(4) The provisions of this regulation shall, as far as may be, apply also to cases where the civil authorities hand over the naval offender to be dealt with under the Act, as well as where they institute proceedings in the civil courts.

117. Attendance at trial.—(1) The attendance of an officer to watch the civil trial of an officer or a sailor in India shall be at the discretion of the accused's Commanding Officer, who shall consider the gravity of the charge, the distance from the ship to the court and the exigencies of the Service,

(2) If called upon by the court to testify to the character and antecedents of the accused, the officer who attends shall not give information of minor offences against the discipline of the Service unless specially required by the court to do so, nor shall he take a sailor's Advancement and Conduct Record Sheet with him to the court, since the nature of such offences and the contents of the said sheet are liable to be misunderstood to the prejudice of the accused.

(3) If the accused be committed for trial, the officer watching the case shall mention to the accused the desirability of asking the court whether he is not entitled to bail or, if not entitled, whether he may not have bail.

118. Consequences of conviction by civil authorities.—When a sailor being charged for a civil offence appears before a civil court and is sentenced or placed on probation, an offence has been proved against him and he shall be liable to forfeit the pay and service for the time spent in civil custody and he shall be liable to incur the naval penalties under the provisions of regulation 119.

119. Forfeiture of pay and service.—(1) A sailor shall forfeit one day's pay and service for each day (or part of a day) during which he is detained by the civil authority as part of the sentence and shall also, as a general rule, forfeit pay and service on the same scale for time spent in custody while awaiting or attending his trial.

(2) The Chief of the Naval Staff may remit such penalties whenever the offence is venial and brings no discredit on the Service; and also in cases where there are special grounds for such remission.

(3) Where a sailor is on leave when arrested by the civil authority, his time and pay shall not be stopped for that portion of his absence during which he was on leave.

(4) There may be three or more separate periods for which a sailor forfeits pay and time in respect of a single conviction:—

- (a) from the date of his arrest (unless he is on leave at the time) or from the expiration of his leave (if he is arrested during leave and is still in custody when his leave expires);
- (b) from the date of surrender to bail (if he is allowed to return to his ship pending trial);
- (c) from the date of a sentence of imprisonment.

Any such periods shall be shown separately in the "Time Forfeited" column of the Service Certificate, even if some of them are continued.

(5) Where the offence is one that has brought disgrace or discredit on the uniform, the Service, or the position which the offender holds, he may be awarded the following naval penalties with the prior approval of the Chief of the Naval Staff, namely:—

- (a) break in continuity of "V.G." conduct, (if this penalty is enforced, the date of conviction is to be noted in the conduct sheet as the date of commencement of "V.G." conduct);
- (b) award of an inferior character on the next occasion of assessment;
- (c) deprivation of Good Conduct Badges;
- (d) deprivation of L.S. & G.C./Meritorious Service Medal.

(6) When the offences are specially serious or repeated, the sailor may be disgraced or discharged S.N.L.R. but such penalties shall be authorised only by the Chief of the Naval Staff and along with the proposal of such penalties the offender's Service Certificate shall be forwarded with the prescribed form.

(7) A decision by the Chief of the Naval Staff on the imposition of naval penalties shall be obtained on the prescribed form as soon as possible after the sailor's conviction.

(8) Forfeitures of pay and time enforced under sub-regulation (4) shall take effect from the commencement of each separate period of absence.

(9) If any of the penalties specified in sub-regulations (5) and (6) are enforced, they shall take effect from the date of conviction, except in the case of discharge S.N.L.R. in which case the date shall be decided by the Chief of the Naval Staff and similarly, when a sailor appeals, and the appeal is quashed, the original date of conviction shall stand for the purpose of applying any naval penalties awarded.

(10) The decision shall be noted with all necessary particulars on the Conduct Sheet and the service certificate, the prescribed form being finally enclosed in the quarterly return of punishment.

(11) A warrant shall not be required for any naval penalty.

120. Disposal of personal effects.—In the case of an individual sentenced to imprisonment who is discharged S.N. L. R., his effects and any pay that may be due to him upto the date of discharge shall be forwarded to the Superintendent of the jail to be delivered to the sailor on the expiry of the period of imprisonment.

121. Conviction of an officer by civil court.—(1). An officer who has been found guilty by any civil court of an offence involving moral turpitude or is sentenced to imprisonment shall be liable to be discharged from service. In other cases of conviction by civil court, the Chief of the Naval Staff shall consider whether the offence renders his further retention in the service undesirable. Appropriate action shall be taken as provided in regulation 216.

(2) In all cases where an officer has been sentenced to imprisonment, his pay and allowances shall be withheld from the date of conviction until the decision of the Government is obtained—

- (a) with regard to the retention in service or otherwise of the officer in accordance with the provisions of regulation 216, and
- (b) with regard to the pay and allowances, if any, to be allowed to him for the period during which such pay and allowances have been withheld.

122. Notice of Appeal.—When notice of appeal to a higher civil court is given, in the case of a sailor the Administrative Authority concerned shall give consideration to the suspension of the imposition of naval penalties pending the result of the appeal and in the case of an officer, the Central Government shall in each case, after taking into account the recommendations made by the Chief of the Naval Staff, consider whether further action required to be taken against the officer following his conviction in the lower court should be withheld until the result of the appeal is known.

123. Copies of Judgment.—Whenever a person subject to Naval law has been tried by a civil court a copy of the judgment of the court will be supplied free of cost on an application by the Chief of the Naval Staff or Commanding Officer.

124. Debt Cases.—The Commanding Officer shall be justified, under sub-section (1) of section 21 in not allowing any sailor belonging to his ship to be taken under any warrant, process, or writ of execution issued by any court or public servant for any debt or alleged debt.

125. Report of refusal to surrender.—Every case of refusal to surrender an officer or sailor to a warrant, summons, or other process, shall at once be reported fully to the Chief of the Naval Staff, with the grounds of such refusal and the offences with which the officer or sailor is charged on shore.

126. Legal advice, engagement of counsel and defence of personnel in civil courts.—(1) The rules regarding the engagement and remuneration of counsel for the prosecution of offenders in a civil court and the defence of sailors charged with criminal offences shall be as detailed in Appendix II.

(2) When the defence of an officer is considered desirable the case shall be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff for obtaining the orders of the Government thereon.

SECTION IV

DESERTERS AND ABSENTEES

127. Absentees.—Sailors who may have quitted their ships without leave, or have overstayed their leave, or have improperly absented themselves when detached on duty, and who may be apprehended before the expiration of seven days, beyond the precincts of a dockyard or other Government establishment in which they may have been employed, shall be treated either as absentees or as deserters, according to circumstances which are to be judged by their respective Commanding Officers.

128. Arrest by civil authority.—If an absentee without leave is arrested by the civil authority on another charge and is subsequently handed over to the naval authorities, his absence without leave shall be regarded as ceasing from the date of his arrest by the civil authority.

129. Deserters and absentees on sailing.—When any person, below the rank of an officer, belonging to a ship under sailing orders remains absent without leave, the Commanding Officer shall place the notation R.Q. against his name on the ship's books and shall furnish the Senior Naval Officer present, his Administrative Authority and the Chief of the Naval Staff with a list of any such absentees.

130. Removal of R.Q.—If any such absentee should return or be apprehended and brought back after the ship has sailed, he may be—

(a) sent to his proper ship, or

(b) dealt with in the ship to which he is brought.

NOTE.—Course (a) is preferable from the disciplinary point of view provided that it does not involve undue delay in the investigation of the case. If the sailor is convicted of desertion, the notation "R" shall be substituted for the notation "R.Q." against his name in the books of the ship from which he absented himself. If the intention to desert is not proved, the notation "R.Q." shall be removed. The officer who deals with the case summarily is responsible for seeing that the necessary action is taken in accordance with this regulation.

131. Disposal of effects.—The clothes and effects of such absentee's shall be sent to Captain, Naval Barracks, Bombay or senior naval officer at the port before the ship sails.

132. When absentees to be marked 'Run'.—(1) If any person absents himself from his duty without leave and fails to give a good and sufficient reason for his absence, he shall be checked accordingly on the ship's books on the day of his absence if his absence began before noon, and on the day following, if his absence began afternoon.

(2) If the absentee had not returned at the expiration of seven days, he shall, irrespective of the 12 o'clock rule for checking, be marked 'RUN'. The letter 'R' shall be placed against his name on the ship's books on the day on which absence began, his pay terminating on and including that date and he shall not be discharged from the ship's books until authority for his discharge is given by the Commanding Officer of the ship.

(3) When an absentee is marked 'RUN', he shall not be entitled to receive the pay which has accrued to the date of his discharge, unless the court or officer by whom he is tried, or the Chief of the Naval Staff otherwise directs.

(4) When a sailor has been absent from his duty without leave for more than three months, the Commanding Officer may authorise his discharge from the ship's books, but no such authority for discharge from ship's books shall be given if there is reason to suspect that he may be required to answer charges other than desertion and if it is possible that he may be required to answer other charges, the circumstances shall be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff and the absentee shall remain on the ship's books until the approval of the Chief of the Naval Staff is obtained for his discharge therefrom.

133. Removal of 'R' by Commanding Officer.—(1) If the Commanding Officer is satisfied that there was no intention to desert, he shall remove the 'R' placed against the name of the absentee under Regulation 132 provided the absentee has not been convicted summarily as a deserter, and cause payment to be made of the pay accrued, the case being reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff for information.

(2) Whenever persons are treated summarily as deserters, the letter 'R' shall be placed against their names on the ship's books.

134. Removal of 'R' by the Chief of the Naval Staff.—(1) A sailor who has completed the following service with continuous "V.G." conduct may apply to his Commanding Officer for the removal of the letter 'R' from his record:—

- (a) three years within 5 years of service after punishment for desertion;
- (b) four years within nine years of service after punishment for desertion;
- (c) six years within any time after punishment for desertion.

The periods of five and nine years shall be reckoned from the day after the completion of the sentence served for desertion, or, if the sentence has been suspended before committal, from the day after the award of the punishment.

(2) If the Commanding Officer considers the sailor's general behaviour to have been satisfactory and is able to recommend him for the concession, he shall forward the application to the Chief of the Naval Staff for consideration along with the original Service Certificate and Advancement and Conduct Record Sheet of the sailor.

(3) Where a sailor has deserted more than once, an application under clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-regulation (1) may be made for the removal of the last 'R' and if this is approved, a sailor may begin to qualify for the removal of a previous 'R' under the same provisions, the period of five or nine years being reckoned from the date of removal of the last 'R' and similarly with any further notation of 'R'.

135. Desertion after re-engagement.—Whenever any person, who has previously deserted, is again convicted of desertion after he has re-engaged to complete time for pension, the question of his retention in the Service shall be referred for the decision of the Chief of the Naval Staff as soon as the offender has been dealt with.

136. Forfeiture of medals on desertion.—(1) When a sailor is dealt with summarily on a charge of desertion and is found guilty, a definite decision shall be recorded as to the retention or forfeiture of gallantry medals or decorations, including decorations which have been gazetted but are not yet in the sailor's possession.

(2) A forfeiture of campaign medals and commemorative medals shall not be remitted.

(3) When a sailor is convicted of desertion by court-martial, no mention shall be made of medals in the sentence unless the court remits the forfeiture in accordance with sub-regulations (5), (6) and (7).

(4) When the offence is desertion during hostilities, the naval tribunal trying the case shall not remit the forfeiture of decoration and medals but shall report to the Chief of the Naval Staff the forfeiture of any medal awarded for gallantry or of any decoration. The L.S. & G.C. medal shall automatically be forfeited.

(5) When the offence of desertion has not been committed during hostilities, the naval tribunal shall remit the forfeiture of any decoration or medal awarded for gallantry, but shall not remit the forfeiture of campaign or commemorative medals.

(6) Forfeiture of medals and decorations awarded for conspicuous service may be remitted at the discretion of the naval tribunal, but if the forfeiture is not so remitted a special report shall be made to the Chief of the Naval Staff.

(7) In respect of medals other than the L.S. & G.C./Meritorious Service Medal the decision as to forfeiture or retention shall be at the discretion of the naval tribunal but when the offence is tried summarily, forfeiture shall be subject to the approval of the Chief of the Naval Staff.

(8) Any remission or forfeiture which is not in accordance with the provisions of this regulation shall be reported to the Chief of the Naval Staff for obtaining the orders of the Government.

(9) A deserter who is not reclaimed shall be disqualified for the grant of any medal or decoration which is not already awarded for service prior to desertion, but shall not be disqualified for any medal or decoration awarded for gallantry unless the desertion is during hostilities.

(10) Forfeiture of badges, medals and decorations shall be indicated on the Service Certificate in the following manner.

(i) Badges.—The notation “Badge (or Badges) forfeited” shall be made after the last badge entry.

(ii) Medals and Decorations.—The relative entries shall be ruled through and notation “Forfeited” with the date of conviction, shall be inserted below. Remission of forfeiture shall be indicated in the appropriate column as follows:—

“Forfeiture remitted”.

- (iii) The notations shall be authenticated by the Commanding Officer.

137. Apprehension of deserters.—(1) Every possible effort shall be made by lawful means to detect and apprehend deserters or absentees.

(2) The names and other descriptions of the deserters or absentees shall be distributed among such persons as may be directed by the Chief of the Naval Staff, but one copy of the same shall invariably be sent by the Commanding Officer to the police authorities of the deserter's or absentee's usual place of residence, when it is known, and also of any other place or places where he may likely to have gone.

(3) When deserters are apprehended or they voluntarily surrender after more than two years' absence from the Service, they shall not be removed from their place of confinement until the directions of the Chief of the Naval Staff have been obtained.

(4) Any person who voluntarily confesses to being a deserter or an absentee without leave from the Navy may, unless he surrenders himself into naval custody, either

- (a) be charged before a magistrate or

- (b) be arrested on a warrant under section 83 of the Act and delivered direct into naval custody.

In either case the question whether such a person be or be not a deserter or absentee shall be duly investigated by the concerned naval authority and for that purpose such person may be detained for a reasonable time.

(5) If upon investigation his confession of desertion or absence without leave is found not to be true, such a person shall not be punished under the Act.

138. Procedure on arrest.—(1) The procedure to be followed in respect of the arrest and subsequent disposal of a deserter shall be governed by the provisions of sections 54, 60 and 549 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (5 of 1898) and sections 83, 84 and 85 of the Act.

(2) If it becomes necessary for any person to be sent to the hospital while in naval custody, the Commanding Officer shall inform the Commanding Officer of the hospital of the fact that the person is under arrest and that he may not be surrendered under any civil process except under the provisions of regulation 115.

139. When charged before a magistrate.—Under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (5 of 1898), a person may be arrested without a warrant on suspicion of being a deserter from the Indian Navy (section 54) and when he is so arrested, the police officer arresting him shall produce him before a magistrate.

140. When arrested by naval warrant.—If arrested on naval warrant under section 83, the deserter or absentee may be received into naval custody, and dealt with under the Act but no deserter or absentee who has not been arrested under such warrant shall be received from the Police or from any other person, unless such deserter or absentee has first been charged before a magistrate.

141. Voluntary surrender.—A deserter or absentee who voluntarily surrenders himself to naval authority may be dealt with under the Act, though no warrant for his arrest may have been issued and without charging him before a magistrate.

142. Summary investigation in writing.—(1) When any deserter or absentee without leave, whether delivered into naval custody by order of a magistrate, or by a warrant issued under section 83 or by voluntary surrender, is brought before the Commanding Officer of any one of Indian Naval Ships to be dealt with summarily, a thorough investigation shall be made with a view to establishing identity, and a note taken in writing of the proceedings; the offender shall at the same time be asked formally if he has any statement to make.

(2) Such statement, if made shall be signed by the offender and fully witnessed; and the accuracy of any such statement shall be tested carefully before the investigation is closed.

(3) The written note of the investigation and the offender's statement shall be retained as enclosures to the punishment warrant.

143. Notice of recovery.—Whenever a deserter whose description has been reported to the Police is recovered the fact of his recovery shall at once be communicated to the police by the Commanding Officer of the ship in which the sailor is received for trial.

144. Recovery of deserters from foreign ships.—The Commanding Officers of Indian Naval Ships shall be cautious in receiving men from foreign vessels, who may represent themselves, or are reported to be deserters from the Indian Navy.

145. Searching foreign ships.—In no case shall an officer of the Indian Navy search any foreign ship for a naval deserter, whether such ship be in foreign waters or elsewhere, and whether the officer be armed or not with the warrant mentioned in section 83.

146. Rewards for apprehensions.—(1) Exceptional zeal or intelligence in effecting the arrest of a deserter or absentee, or in causing him to surrender, may be recognised by the payment of a reward the amount of which shall be determined having regard to the energy and intelligence shown, but such amount shall not exceed Rs. 5/- for the arrest of a sailor who has overstayed his leave, or for the arrest of a deserter, or of a sailor who has—

- (a) broken out of his ship; or
- (b) when on service away from his ship, quitted his place of duty and continued to be absent after the time at which he should have returned to the ship; or
- (c) when his ship was under sailing orders, continued to be absent without leave after the ship had sailed, provided that the fact of the ship being under sailing orders was generally known.

(2) A reward shall not be offered beforehand, except in rare cases where the recovery of the deserter or absentee is of special importance for other reasons.

(3) No reward shall be paid for the apprehension of an officer.

(4) If the constable, or other person, bringing a deserter or absentee on board, should object to the Commanding Officer's award, the question shall be submitted to the Chief of the Naval Staff who shall forward it for a decision of the Government.

147. Charges against deserter.—(1) The amount of the reward and the cost of the deserter's or absentee's own railway fare or sea passage shall be the only charges that may be deducted towards his desertion expenses from his pay by the ship to which he is brought, whether the escort be naval, military, air force or police. Such reward and cost shall be shown separately in the appropriate column of the ledger, except when especially remitted by the Chief of the Naval Staff. The amounts chargeable in respect of railway warrants issued by the police in India, for the deserter's or absentee's own conveyance shall be communicated to the sailor's ship by the Controller of Defence Accounts (Navy).

(2) The amount charged against the offender's pay (or if this cannot definitely be ascertained, the approximate sum) shall be noted for information (but not as punishment) on the punishment warrant, and in the daily record of offences.

(3) The cost of telegrams sent concerning deserters or absentees shall not be charged against them.

CHAPTER V

COURTS MARTIAL

148. When application for court martial be made.—(1) The Commanding Officer shall make an application for the trial of an offender by court martial in the following cases namely:—

- (a) when an offence has been committed by a sailor which it is beyond his powers to try;
- (b) when the Commanding Officer considers that an offence has been committed by a sailor which is beyond his powers to punish adequately:—
- (c) when any offence has been committed which he considers ought to be tried by court martial;
- (d) if the accused has exercised his option in accordance with these regulations to be tried by court martial;
- (e) when so directed by his superior authority.

(2) If a Commanding Officer himself is to be tried, an application for trial shall be made by his superior authority.

(3) In the case of an officer serving in Naval Headquarters, the application for trial shall be made by an officer designated in this behalf by the Chief of the Naval Staff.

(4) In the case of an officer on the staff of an Administrative Authority, the application for trial shall be made by such officer as may be designated by the Administrative Authority.

(5) In the case of an officer serving in a naval establishment not commissioned as a ship, the application for trial shall be made by the head of that establishment, unless such establishment is under the command of a Commanding Officer of one of Indian Naval Ships.

(6) Where an officer other than a Commanding Officer is required to make an application for trial by court martial, references hereinafter to the Commanding Officer shall include references to such other officer.

149. Procedure for investigation and taking down summary of evidence.—(1) Before a Commanding Officer proceeds to make an application for trial by court martial he shall either investigate the case himself or appoint a suitable person to investigate the case and to record a summary of evidence.

(2) The investigating officer shall take down in writing the evidence of any person whose evidence appears to be relevant and the evidence of each witness after it has been recorded shall be read over to him and shall be signed by him or if he cannot write, his name shall be attested by his mark and witnessed by the investigating officer as a token of the correctness of the evidence recorded.

(3) The evidence of the witness shall be recorded in the English language and if the witness does not understand the English language, the statement as recorded shall be interpreted to him in the language which he understands, and a notation shall be made to that effect.

(4) If owing to the exigencies of service or on any other grounds including the expense and the loss of time involved the attendance of any witness cannot in the opinion of the investigating officer be readily procured, some other officer may be directed by the Commanding Officer to take the evidence of the witness, or a written statement of the witness relating to the charge shall be obtained and such statement shall be included in the summary of evidence.

150. Summoning of Witnesses before Investigating Officer.—Any witness whose attendance cannot otherwise be attained may be summoned in accordance with the provisions of regulation 233.

151. Statement of accused.—(1) When the investigating officer has completed recording the evidence he shall, if he himself is not the Commanding Officer, forward it to the Commanding Officer.

(2) The Commanding Officer shall formulate the charges and he shall charge the accused with having committed the offences listed in the charge-sheet and the Commanding Officer shall thereupon caution the accused as follows:—

“Do you wish to make any statement? You are not obliged to say anything unless you wish to do so but whatever you say will be taken down in writing and may be given as evidence.”

(3) Any statement made by the accused shall be taken down, read over to him and signed by him but he shall not be cross-examined upon it.

152. Remand of accused.—(1) The evidence recorded by the investigating officer and the statement of the accused, if any, hereinafter referred to as the “summary of evidence” shall be considered by the Commanding Officer who thereupon shall either—

- (a) remand the accused for trial by a court martial, or
- (b) refer the case to his superior authority for directions, or
- (c) in the case of a sailor if it is within his jurisdiction to try the offences charged, then, unless he has received directions to the contrary from his superior authority, dispose of the case summarily.

(2) When the case is referred to a proper superior authority for directions, such superior authority shall give such directions as it considers appropriate, provided that where investigation has been carried out for the purpose of giving effect to any directions of any higher authority, the case shall be submitted to him.

(3) Where in accordance with the directions of a superior authority given under sub-regulation (2), the Commanding Officer has been directed to apply for trial by court martial the Commanding Officer shall remand the accused for trial by court martial.

(4) When the accused has been remanded for trial by court martial, the Commanding Officer shall proceed to make an application to the proper convening authority in the manner hereinafter provided.

153. Application for trial—Circumstantial Letter.—(1) An application for the trial by court martial of any person shall be made as follows:—

There shall be forwarded to the Convening authority through the usual channels a letter, hereinafter called the circumstantial letter, reporting the circumstances on which the charge or charges are founded in the order of their occurrence, and in sufficient detail to show the real nature and extent of the offence; when words constitute the substance of the offence, they are to be fully and exactly set out. The letter shall not refer in any way to the previous character, conduct or convictions of the accused, or contain any reference to facts prejudicial to him other than such as bear directly on the charges.

(2) When a charge is drawn under section 55 the circumstantial letter shall contain specific details of every respect in which it is alleged that the accused was at fault.

(3) Any statement made by the accused in the course of enquiries or during an investigation or after he had been charged shall not be included in the circumstantial letter unless it constitutes an essential part of the alleged offence, such as in a charge of perjury and such statement shall be forwarded as an annexure to the circumstantial letter in a separate document and reference shall be made in the circumstantial letter itself to the fact that such statement was made and to its inclusion in the annexure.

(4) If the Commanding Officer should desire to enter into further explanations as to his reasons for asking for a court martial which would necessarily refer to the previous conduct or antecedents of the accused, he shall do so orally or by separate letter to the convening authority.

154. Documents to accompany circumstantial letter.—There shall also be forwarded at the same time as the circumstantial letter a further letter enclosing:—

- (a) the charge sheet drawn in accordance with these regulations;
- (b) a list of witnesses for the prosecution;
- (c) a summary of evidence in support of the charges;
- (d) a list of the exhibits which the prosecutor proposes to put in evidence.

And when the offender is below the rank of an officer,

- (e) a certified extract of all entries of offences and punishments in the Record of Offences Sheet prior to the date of the offence charged but subsequently to his joining his present ship, with his character assessed from the previous 31st December to the date of the offence with which he may be charged but excluding all consideration of that offence;
- (f) a certified copy of the accused's certificate of service.

155. The Charge Sheet.—(1) The charge sheet shall contain the list of charges on which it is proposed to try the accused.

(2) Subject to the provisions of the Act, a charge sheet may contain one or more charges.

(3) Every charge sheet shall begin with the name and description of the person charged and state his rank or rating as the case may be, the official number if any and the ship to which he belongs.

(4) Each charge shall deal with a distinct offence and in no case shall an offence be described in the alternative in the same charge.

(5) If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

(6) If the law which creates an offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated so as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

(7) The law and the section of the law against which an offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

(8) The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged with is fulfilled in the particular case.

(9) The charge shall contain such particulars as to time and place of the alleged offence and of the person, if any, against whom or the thing, if any, in respect of which it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

(10) When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in the foregoing sub-regulation do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose, unless such particulars are stated in the circumstantial letter.

(11) When the accused is charged with criminal breach of trust or dishonest misappropriation of money or stores, it shall be sufficient to specify the gross sum or the aggregate of all items of stores in respect of which the offence is alleged to have been committed, and the dates between which the offence is alleged to have been committed without specifying particular items or exact dates, and the charge so framed shall be deemed to be a charge for one offence, provided that the time included between the first and last of such dates shall not exceed one year.

(12) Where an accused person is believed to have committed an offence of being absent without leave in addition to some other offences, a charge of absence without leave shall also be included in the charge sheet in order that the court may have the power to sentence the accused to mulcts of pay and allowances.

(13) Where it is intended to prove any facts in respect of which any mulcts of pay and allowances may be awarded to make good any proved loss or damage occasioned by the offence charged, the charge shall contain particulars of these facts and the sum of the loss or damage it is intended to charge.

(14) In every charge, words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

(15) A charge sheet shall be in the prescribed form or in a form as near thereto as circumstances admit.

DUTIES OF CONVENING AUTHORITY

156. Examination of charges and evidence.—(1) When the convening authority has received the circumstantial letter and other documents hereinbefore referred to, he shall, before he orders a court martial to assemble, satisfy himself that the charges are correct and sufficient and that they are properly framed and carefully drawn up.

(2) The convening authority shall not convene a court martial unless he has satisfied himself that the evidence if uncontradicted or unexplained will probably suffice to ensure a conviction.

157. Amendment of charges by convening authority.—(1) The convening authority may amend the charges submitted to him and thereupon a fresh charge sheet shall be drawn up and signed by the convening authority and the charge sheet so amended shall stand substituted for the original charge sheet.

(2) Where the charge sheet has not been amended, it shall be countersigned by the convening authority.

158. Amendment of Circumstantial letter.—The convening authority may make such amendments in the circumstantial letter as may appear to be necessary on the basis of the charges framed and the summary of evidence and the circumstantial letter as finally approved shall be signed by the convening authority to indicate his approval.

Provided that where in the opinion of the medical board the officer is suffering from a mental disease and it is either unsafe to communicate the nature of the disease or disability to the officer or the officer is unfit to look after his interests, the nature of the disease or disability shall be communicated to the officer's next-of-kin who shall also have the right to petition under sub-regulation (3).

APPENDIX II

I—CRIMINAL PROSECUTION OF AN OFFENDER IN CIVIL COURT IN CASES IN WHICH THE INDIAN NAVY IS DIRECTLY INTERESTED

II—DEFENCE OF SAILORS CHARGED WITH CRIMINAL OFFENCES

APPENDIX II

(See regulation 126)

ICRIMINAL PROSECUTION OF AN OFFENDER IN CIVIL COURT
IN CASES IN WHICH THE INDIAN NAVY IS DIRECTLY INTERESTED

In cases in which the Indian Navy is directly interested financially or otherwise in the Prosecution of an offender in a Civil Court (whether subject to the Navy Act, 1957 or not), the following procedure shall be followed:—

- (a) either the Solicitor of the State Government where the accused is prosecuted should be employed, or, when the prosecution is directly controlled from Naval Headquarters, the Solicitor to the Government of India, who will if necessary, take further advice from the Advocate General, or the Government Advocate, according to the State in which the prosecution is being conducted; and
- (b) no prosecutions shall be instituted without adequate legal advice being taken in writing, and that no prosecution shall be instituted or withdrawn in any manner contrary to such legal advice without reference to the Central Government.

2. In such cases, the prosecution will ordinarily be conducted by the Public Prosecutor, the prosecuting staff of the Police Department, the Government Pleader or other Legal Officer of the State Government concerned, in which case the expenses of the prosecution will be defrayed by the civil authority in the ordinary course.

3. When, however, the employment of a Government Pleader or other Legal Officer of the State Government concerned is not feasible owing to the nature of the case, or for other reasons, and the Government Law Officer, who is consulted, advises the employment of special counsel, the fees, travelling and detention allowances of the latter may, on the advice of the Government Law Officer concerned, be sanctioned by the Chief of the Naval Staff who formally engages counsel. The Chief of the Naval Staff is also empowered to meet expenditure on court fees, process fees, and the like, on a requisition to be made by the Advocate General, Government Pleader, Government Solicitor or other law officer or counsel concerned.

4. The amount of fees agreed upon shall immediately be reported to the Central Government together with an estimate of the total cost involved. On conclusion of the case, a report of the result and a complete statement of costs shall be forwarded to the Central Government.

II

DEFENCE OF SAILORS CHARGED WITH CRIMINAL OFFENCES

5. The following are the rules for the defence of sailors charged with criminal offences, and prosecuted by Government in Civil Courts:—

- (a) When sailors are to be tried by a Civil Court upon any criminal charge, the Chief of the Naval Staff or the Administrative Authority shall consult the District Magistrate and arrange with him for the selection and remuneration of a pleader or advocate as the importance and necessities of the case may require.
- (b) Except in cases in which the Central Government are interested, the maximum amount that may be paid to the pleader or advocate is—
 - (i) Rs. 100 for each day that he appears in the case, on behalf of one or more accused before a High Court or Sessions Court, or
 - (ii) Rs. 50 for each day that he appears in the case, on behalf of one or more accused before any other court.

These amounts include expenses of every description which counsel may incur.

- (iii) In a joint trial, when the Chief of the Naval Staff or the Administrative Authority is satisfied that the accused requires different lines of defence, he may authorise the separate payment of fees for each accused so defended.
- (c) The Chief of the Naval Staff or the Administrative Authority as the case may be, shall appoint a pleader or advocate only in cases where he thinks it desirable. The amount to be paid to counsel shall definitely be settled beforehand, subject to the above maxima. If suitable counsel cannot be obtained for the remuneration admissible under these rules, the case shall be reported to the Central Government with a view to their orders being obtained thereon.

- (d) In High Courts in which counsel may not plead unless instructed by a solicitor, a solicitor may be employed and his bill of costs, which should include counsel's fees [subject to the restrictions laid down in clause (b) above] shall be submitted to the Legal Remembrancer of the State Government and his certificate obtained that the amount of the bill is reasonable before it is submitted for the orders of the Government.
- (e) When counsel is rightly provided for the defence of a sailor at the first trial in a civil court, counsel can also be provided when considered necessary on appeal, subject to the limitations laid down in clauses (b) and (c) above

APPENDIX III

(See regulation 175)

The ceremonial which accompanies the assembling of a court-martial and during its proceedings is not, strictly speaking, a part of the actual trial and a deviation therefrom shall not affect the validity of the proceedings. All persons concerned with naval court-martial shall, however, strive to maintain a tradition which has for its object the maintenance of the dignity of the court and the retention of the supremacy of the rule of law.

2. Preliminary Ceremonial.—(a) The National Flag shall be hoisted whenever a court-martial is sitting or is about to sit. It shall be worn at the peak or at the yardarm as appropriate.

(b) On the day on which a court-martial is to sit a gun shall be fired when colours are hoisted, or at the time when the signal is made, if the court is ordered to sit immediately.

(c) The National Flag shall be dipped between each separate court.

(d) If the court sits for more than one day, the National Flag shall be hoisted and a gun fired each day when colours are hoisted.

(e) The National Flag shall be hauled down when the court adjourns for the day.

(f) Instructions for firing the court-martial gun shall be issued by the convening authority. It shall normally be fired by the ship in which the court-martial is to be held, but if this is not practicable for any reason, the gun may be fired by any ship or shore battery in the vicinity.

(g) Captain and Commanders while attending as members of a court-martial, shall be received by a petty officer's guard, but such guard shall present arms only to the president of the court. Members below the rank of Commander shall not be received by a guard.

(h) Instructions for provision of guard when not paraded by the ship in which the court is being held, shall be issued by the convening authority.

(i) Between hours of colours and sun-set, the side shall be piped to the members of Court-Martial proceeding to attend or returning from the court, while coming on board or leaving any of the Indian Naval Ships.

(j) Officers attending as members of a court-martial shall ensure that they arrive before the president of the court in order that they may be present to receive him on his arrival.

(k) The trial judge advocate shall receive the president at the entrance of the court room and then introduce the other members of the court to him.

3. (a) The president and members of the court shall assemble and take their seats while the spare members shall stand at one end of the court table.

(b) The members shall sit in order of seniority, the officer next senior to the president sitting on his right, the next senior on his left and so on.

(c) Members of the court shall assemble with their caps on and shall not remove them until the president is about to be sworn. All Service personnel present in the court shall follow the motions of the court in the matter of wearing and removing caps. Officers under instruction shall be admitted when the court assembles.

(d) The trial judge advocate shall sit on a table placed on the left hand of the court table but on the same level with the court where there is a raised platform.

(e) Facing the court table, two tables shall be placed, one for the accused and the defending officer or counsel and the other for the prosecutor. The accused's table may conveniently be on the left hand side of the president and the prosecutor's table on the right hand side. The witness box may be placed on the right hand side of the court table.

(f) The short-hand writer shall sit immediately below the court where there is a platform for the court to sit, otherwise in a place near the trial judge advocate.

(g) A bell or a buzzer may be made available to enable the president or the trial judge advocate to summon the officer of the court.

4. The officer of the court shall report to the president whether all witnesses are in attendance. The president, when he is ready to declare the court open, may summon the officer of the court and ask for this report.

5. (a) The president shall declare the court open and direct that the accused be brought in. The accused shall be brought in by the provost marshal.

(b) The provost marshal shall carry a drawn sword while escorting the accused in and out of the court. He shall, however, "return" the sword when the accused takes his seat. If the accused himself gives evidence, the provost marshal shall accompany him to the witness-stand and stand at attention behind him while he gives his evidence. If this is likely to be protracted, the president may allow the provost marshal to be seated in close proximity to the accused in which case he may "return" the sword while he is sitting. The provost marshal shall generally follow the movements of the accused in the matter of standing or sitting and taking off or wearing his cap.

NOTE.—The provost marshal cannot take off his cap when he has a drawn sword.

(c) The accused, if he wears a cap, shall remove it when the president is about to take the oath. He shall remain standing until the president gives him permission to sit. This shall usually be done after the plea, or after a plea in bar of trial, if any.

(d) If the accused is an officer and wears a sword, his sword in his scabbard shall be laid on the table opposite to the president so that neither the hilt nor the point is towards the accused.

(e) The officer of the court shall follow the accused in the court and shall ask him for his sword and place it on the court table.

6. (a) The defending officer or the counsel for the accused shall follow the accused in the court. The trial judge advocate shall announce his name to the court.

(b) The defending officer shall follow the motions of the court in the matter of wearing his cap. On entering the court he shall salute the president and may then take his seat.

(c) If the accused is defended by a counsel, he shall wear his robes. On entering the court he shall bow to the president and then take his seat.

7. The prosecutor and his assistant, if any, and the audience shall then be admitted. If he is a Service Officer, the prosecutor shall salute the court and take his seat. If he is a counsel, he shall bow to the president and then take his seat.

8. (a) The trial judge advocate shall read from his seat the warrant for assembling the court.

(b) The president to whom the warrant has been issued by the convening authority shall bring this document to the trial. The trial judge advocate may obtain from the president the original copy thereof before the commencement of the court.

9. The trial judge advocate shall then read the names of the officers available to form the court and shall ask the prosecutor and then the defence whether they object to anyone of them. The names of the spare members shall not be read. Objections, if any, shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of section 102 of the Navy Act.

10. After the objections, if any, have been duly disposed of, the trial judge advocate shall announce : "The court has been duly constituted. Gentlemen, off caps, if you please."

11. (a) The trial judge advocate shall then administer oath or affirmation to the president and the members.

(b) When the oath is being administered, the president or the member concerned and the trial judge advocate shall stand in their respective places.

12. (a) The president shall then administer oath or affirmation to the trial judge advocate.

(b) In administering the oath, the president and the trial judge advocate shall both stand at their respective places. It will perhaps be more convenient for the president to request the trial judge advocate to make his oath or affirmation.

13. The trial judge advocate shall then administer oath to any officer under instruction.

The trial judge advocate shall ask the accused whether he objects to the short-hand writer or other person employed to record the proceedings, and if there is no objection, he shall administer to him the prescribed oath or affirmation.

15. (a) The trial shall then proceed in accordance with the normal procedure, the prosecution and the defence presenting their cases respectively through the witnesses called by them.

(b) Whenever in the course of a trial it appears desirable to the trial judge advocate that arguments and evidence as to the admissibility of evidence or arguments in support of an application for separate trial; or on any other points of law should not be heard in the presence of the court, he may advise the president of the court accordingly and the president shall thereupon make an order for the court to retire or direct the trial judge advocate to hear the arguments in some other convenient place in accordance with section 114(2) of the Navy Act.

(c) Since, it may not normally be possible to find another suitable place with necessary furniture, fittings and facilities for the trial judge advocate, the accused, the defending officer or counsel, the prosecutor and his assistant, the stenographer, witnesses and audience, it may be desirable and convenient for the court to retire to an appropriate room to be kept ready for the purpose. The trial judge advocate should settle this before hand with the president of the court-martial.

(d) Whenever the court has to retire and under these circumstances all present in the court room shall stand in their places as the members of the court file out of the court room for going to the retiring room.

(e) After the necessary arguments have been heard and the point at issue decided, the trial judge advocate shall inform the court through the officer of the court. Members of the court shall then come in and resume their seats. All present in the court shall stand in their seats when the members are coming in and shall resume seats only after all members of the court have resumed their seats and have taken off their caps.

(f) The trial shall then proceed in the normal manner.

(g) After the summing up by the defence, the prosecution and the trial judge advocate, the court shall be cleared to consider the finding. The trial judge advocate, the officer under instruction and the stenographer shall also withdraw from the court.

16. When the court has considered the finding, the president shall inform the officer of the court that the court intends to re-assemble. Thereupon the trial judge advocate, the prosecutor, the defence and the audience shall be admitted. If an accused officer has been found guilty on any charge(s), his sword shall, before the court is reopened, be so laid that the point is towards the accused; conversely if he has been found not guilty on all charges, the hilt should point towards him. See paragraph 5(d).

17. (a) The court shall assemble with caps on.

(b) After the court has re-assembled, the trial judge advocate shall ascertain from the president the findings of the court as follows:—

“Mr. president, as to the first charge, what is the finding of the court?”.

(c) The trial judge advocate shall proceed in this manner until he has obtained the verdict on all charges

(d) The trial judge advocate shall thereupon draw up the findings and submit the same for signature of the members by way of attestation starting with the junior-most member. The finding shall be counter-signed by the trial judge advocate.

(e) The trial judge advocate shall then announce the finding in the Court.

18. (a) If the accused is found guilty on any charge, the court shall proceed to consider the question of awarding punishment. The trial judge advocate shall announce:

“Gentlemen, off caps, if you please”.

(b) After hearing the trial judge advocate, the prosecutor and the defence in this respect, the court shall then close to consider the sentence.

(c) The trial judge advocate shall sit with the court while they are considering the sentence and assist the court in the determination of the sentence but shall not vote thereon.

(d) When the court has decided on the sentence the trial judge advocate shall draw up the sentence, which is to be signed by every member of the court notwithstanding any difference of opinion that there may have been among the members. The sentence shall be counter-signed by the trial judge advocate.

19. (a) The court shall then re-assemble, the accused shall be brought in and the defending officer, the prosecutor and audience and witnesses admitted. The trial judge advocate shall then announce the sentence.

(b) The court shall assemble for this purpose with their caps on.

20. After the sentence has been announced, the president shall direct that the accused be removed and declare the court to be dissolved and the National Flag to be hauled down.

21. The president shall wait on the convening authority or the senior officer present with the letter reporting the finding and the sentence.
